Program Description

Overview

OJP is committed to advancing work that promotes civil rights and racial equity, increases access to justice, supports crime victims and individuals impacted by the justice system, strengthens community safety and protects the public from crime and evolving threats and builds trust between law enforcement and the community.

This solicitation is intended to support the development and enhancement of partnerships between juvenile detention centers or jails and community-based victim service providers, with the goal of increasing access to outside support services for juvenile survivors of sexual abuse.

Statutory Authority

34 U.S.C. § 20103(c)(1)(A)

Specific Information

On any given day, nearly 50,000 youth are held in juvenile detention facilities across the United States, often for low-level nonviolent offenses including parole violations, drugs, or truancy, or before they have had a hearing, according to the 2018 World Report from the Human Rights Watch (www.hrw.org/world-report/2018/country-chapters/united-states?msclkid=4afb5f36a9e611ec9e7eb01fcb7dd2f3#). An additional 5,000 or so youth are detained in adult prisons and jails [World Report 2018: United States | Human Rights Watch \(hrw.org\)]. The typical youth detention facility holds people under the age of 18.

The juvenile justice system holds some of the most marginalized children in society. A significant proportion of these children have severe learning disabilities, mental illness, and alcohol or drug addiction. Additionally, the role of race cannot be overlooked. Youth of color are significantly overrepresented in the juvenile justice system. A staggering 42 percent of boys and 35 percent of girls in youth detention are Black—even though Black youth comprise just 14 percent of the overall youth detention population (Youth Confinement: The Whole Pie 2019 | Prison Policy Initiative). Latinx youth also are several times more likely than white children to be in detention (Youth Confinement: The Whole Pie 2019 | Prison Policy Initiative).

An estimated 90 percent of youth who are in the juvenile justice system have a history of serious trauma (Youth Confinement: The Whole Pie 2019 | Prison Policy Initiative). Youth with a history of prior sexual abuse, especially girls, are far more likely to become involved in the criminal justice system than those with no prior abuse—a dynamic that is known as the “sexual abuse to prison pipeline,” according to the National Sexual Violence Resource Center (<https://www.nsvrc.org/publications/nsvrc-publications/resource-newsletter-fall-winter-2016>).

Sexual abuse is devastating during any phase of life, but children and teen survivors are especially at high risk for Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder, depression, and drug addiction. Indeed, young people’s ways of coping with or seeking to escape sexual abuse (running away from home, skipping school, or violating curfew) may contribute directly to their ending up in juvenile detention. Some young survivors act out their feelings in ways that are especially dangerous—like destroying property, getting involved in drugs, or harming themselves. Such behaviors are usually a cry for help; often, however, these actions lead to juvenile detention.

In 2003, the Prison Rape Elimination Act (PREA) was passed with the objective of eliminating prison rape. In 2012, DOJ released its Prison Rape Elimination Act final rule (“PREA Rule”). One of the requirements under the PREA Rule is that correctional agencies must attempt to make available to incarcerated survivors an advocate from a rape crisis center. Correctional agencies are encouraged to enter into an agreement with a rape crisis center to provide incarcerated survivors with an opportunity to receive services from a trained advocate with background and expertise in providing sexual assault advocacy services. Specifically, the relevant PREA standards are:

115.21 Evidence protocol and forensic medical examinations

(d) The agency shall attempt to make available to the victim a victim advocate from a rape crisis center. If a rape crisis center is not available to provide victim advocate services, the agency shall make available a qualified staff member from a community-based organization, or a qualified agency staff member to provide these services. Agencies shall document efforts to secure services from rape crisis centers. For the purpose of this standard, a rape crisis center refers to an entity that provides intervention and related assistance, such as the services specified in 42 U.S.C. § 14043g(b)(2)(C), to victims of sexual assault of all ages. The agency may utilize a rape crisis center that is part of a governmental unit as long as the center is not part of the criminal justice system (such as a law enforcement agency) and offers a comparable level of confidentiality as a nongovernmental entity that provides similar victim services.

(e) As requested by the victim, the victim advocate, qualified agency staff member, or qualified community-based organization staff member shall accompany and support the victim throughout the forensic medical examination process and investigatory interviews and shall provide emotional support, crisis intervention, information, and referrals.”

115.53 Inmate, detainee, and resident access to outside confidential support services

(a) The facility shall provide inmates with access to outside victim advocates for emotional support services related to sexual abuse by giving inmates mailing addresses and telephone numbers, (including toll free hotline numbers where available), of local, state, or national victim advocacy or rape crisis organizations, and for persons detained solely for civil immigration purposes, immigrant services agencies. The facility shall enable a reasonable communication between inmates and these organizations and agencies, in as confidential a manner as possible.

(b) The facility shall inform inmates, prior to giving them access, of the extent to which such communications will be monitored and the extent to which reports of abuse will be forwarded to authorities in accordance with mandatory reporting laws.

(c) The agency shall maintain or attempt to enter into memoranda of understanding or other agreements with community services providers that are able to provide inmates with confidential emotional support services related to sexual abuse. The agency shall maintain copies of agreements or documentation showing attempts to enter into such agreements.”

According to the analysis of institutional factors contributing to sexual abuse in juvenile facilities, facilities that were in compliance with core provisions of the PREA standards—namely providing youth education about how to make a report and how to get help immediately upon intake—had lower rates of sexual abuse than those that did not provide education or provided it later, [Bureau of Justice Statistics (BJS). Facility-level and Individual level Correlates of Sexual Victimization in Juvenile Facilities, 2012. June 2016. (NCJ 249877) Available at <https://www.bjs.gov/content/pub/pdf/flilcsvif12.pdf>. (See page 34.)]. The report also reinforced the need for safe ways for victims of sexual abuse to report and to get help. In facilities where youth indicated that they would be more likely to report sexual activity to a staff member face-to-face, the rates of abuse were much lower than in those where youth said they would be embarrassed or ashamed to report (1.7 percent vs. 5.8 percent) [<https://www.bjs.gov/content/pub/pdf/flilcsvif12.pdf>, see pages 34–35].

Sexual Abuse Among Youth in Detention and the Need for Services

While sexual abuse is widespread in the juvenile justice system, it is also completely preventable. Youth detention facilities with strong leaders can build a culture of respect and openness, where youth feel comfortable speaking out and staff who cross boundaries are held accountable. Yet leadership often fails to address unprofessional behavior, creating conditions for abuse to thrive. Tellingly, Bureau of Justice Statistics studies have found that an overwhelming majority of youth who were victimized by staff reported prior inappropriate contact with their abuser.

Research indicates that detention staff who sexually abuse youth in custody rarely are held accountable, either by the people who lead their facilities or in a court of law. In some cases, abuse by staff persists after the youth is released from detention. The abusive staff member might use an offer of assistance—or the threat of additional incarceration—to control their victims. Some might even use the promise of continuing their “relationship” as a way to keep their victims close.

Unfortunately, although the juvenile justice system is filled with youth who have endured trauma, before or during their time in custody, victim services are rarely available. With few resources to help them heal, children who survive sexual abuse in detention often struggle to get back on their feet. Few of these children are likely to have received counseling, either in detention facilities or in the community. Moreover, many youth detainees have had life experiences that cause them to feel a deep distrust of adults.

Unaddressed trauma will not resolve without the help of trained professionals and will perpetuate the cycle of abuse. Many detained youth find themselves back in the youth system, and are eventually funneled to adult prison and jails, where they become prime targets for yet more abuse.

Youth detention facilities are less likely to have agreements in place with victim advocacy programs than adult prisons, as required under PREA, and are less likely to have conducted regular PREA audits The Youth Law Center, [Protecting Youth in the PREA National Standards \(ylc.org\)]. It is critical for youth detention facilities to have clear policies on victim confidentiality, informed consent, and mandatory reporting requirements. Through this cooperative agreement, OVC will fund project sites that will partner with juvenile facilities to develop victim advocacy services, response protocols, and service delivery methods, with the goal of providing support services to juvenile survivors of sexual abuse.

Goals, Objectives, Deliverables, and Timeline

The goal of this project is to increase access to outside support services for juvenile survivors of sexual abuse in detention.

Purpose Area 1: Project Site Objectives

Under this grant program, the selected victim service organizations shall achieve the following objectives:

1. Partner with juvenile detention centers, jails, and/or correction agencies that do not already have formalized partnerships with victim service providers.
2. Work meaningfully with community advocates to build victim services programming for juvenile detention facility residents and strengthen sexual safety. Specifically, they shall:
 - a. Develop a strong partnership, including by implementing a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) between the facility and victim advocacy agency.
 - b. Address concerns and establish protocols around confidentiality and mandatory reporting when working with detained youth.
3. Establish safe access to technology-based victim services that appeal to youth, such as email, chat, tablets, and web-based services.
4. Explore the provision of innovative and creative programming and non-traditional service delivery to help victim residents heal from sexual abuse and other trauma.
5. Implement services for residents to address trauma broadly, to promote healing from abuses such as trafficking, child sexual abuse, sexual violence, hate crimes, domestic or dating violence, removal from the home, and gun violence.
6. Ensure that residents are educated in an age-appropriate, accessible, and continuously available manner about their rights and available services.
7. Explore additional ways in which advocates can contribute to sexual safety within the facility, including by inviting them to:
 - a. Conduct trainings for facility staff on:
 - i. The role of advocates.
 - ii. How to be victim-centered and trauma-informed in their interactions with residents and their response to sexual harassment and sexual abuse.
 - iii. Healthy adolescent sexual development, specifically supporting and understanding the development of sexuality, sexual orientation, and gender identity; and modeling and maintaining appropriate boundaries with residents.
 - b. Create opportunities for partnership and development of subject matter expertise; for example, by serving on working groups and committees such as Sexual Assault Response Teams, PREA teams, incident review committees, and gender review/classification committees (e.g., to help determine safe housing and programming placements for transgender residents on a case-by-case basis).
 - c. Provide emotional support for residents and staff, as needed during PREA audits.
8. Provide technical assistance (TA) to:
 - a. Prioritize safety and dignity for transgender and gender-nonconforming youth (taking into account housing, privacy, communication, programming).
 - b. Promote an institutional culture of residents reporting and seeking help (i.e., from victim advocates, their counsel, and guardians), including by ensuring access to a confidential and anonymous outside reporting line.
 - c. Strengthen institutional leadership and implement concrete steps to prevent staff abuse via grooming techniques documented in BJS youth data.
 - d. Develop screening protocols and improved staff training and supervision to address breaches in basic professional conduct and help staff to detect and respond to such dynamics in their facilities.
9. Ensure that residents also receive education about healthy relationships, boundaries, communication, other life skills, and understanding trauma.
10. Prepare a plan for program sustainability.

Selected victim service organizations will be required to work with the awarded TA provider. Applicants will be required to submit with their application a Letter of Support indicating a facility's commitment to partnering with the service provider to make victim services available to juvenile survivors.

Purpose Area 1: Project Site Deliverables

1. A needs assessment.
2. A strategic plan to work with the partner facility.
3. An MOU between the victim service organization and the facility, memorializing the partnership and the details of how the services will be provided to juvenile survivors.
4. A report of lessons learned, documented in coordination with the technical assistance provider, to be disseminated throughout the field.

Purpose Area 2: TA Provider Objectives

1. During the first quarter of the grant period, assist each site with conducting a needs assessment to determine gaps in the establishment of PREA-compliant victim services requirements for residents, as part of initial project planning.
2. During the first year, work with the sites to help build the relationships with the victim advocacy programs and assist with MOU development.
3. Provide support addressing the gaps identified in the needs assessment.
4. Provide targeted technical assistance for youth detention officials on implementing effective strategies for staff screening, training, and supervision.
5. Collect and share tools, best practices, and guides related to supporting incarcerated youth who have been victims of crime; identify gaps in the available resources; and create new resources based on the gap analysis.
6. Following TA guidelines, provide ongoing guidance and support via—
 - weekly calls;
 - regular group meeting (with TA provider, grantees and OVC);
 - training and peer sharing; and
 - advanced/directed TA by request, as needed, either virtually or in person.
1. Work with each site to develop a sustainability plan that will support the long-term success of the partnership beyond the grant period.

Purpose Area 2: TA Provider Deliverables

Deliverables include a final report regarding lessons learned, building capacity, and a strategic planning guide to be used across the country by other detention centers to implement support services for their victims.

The Goals, Objectives, and Deliverables are directly related to the performance measures that show the completed work's results, as discussed in the Application and Submission Information section.

Evidence-Based Programs or Practices

OJP strongly encourages the use of data and evidence in policymaking and program development for criminal justice, juvenile justice, and crime victim services. For additional information and resources on evidence-based programs or practices, see the OJP Grant Application Resource Guide.

Information Regarding Potential Evaluation of Programs and Activities

OJP may conduct or support an evaluation of the programs and activities funded under this solicitation. For additional information, see the OJP Grant Application Resource Guide section entitled "Information Regarding Potential Evaluation of Programs and Activities."

OJP Priority Areas

The Department of Justice is committed to advancing work that promotes civil rights and racial equity, increases access to justice, supports crime victims and individuals impacted by the justice system, strengthens community safety and protects the public from crime and evolving threats, and builds trust between law enforcement and the community.

1. Priority Considerations Supporting Executive Order 13985, Advancing Racial Equity and Support for Underserved Communities Through the Federal Government

Consistent with this Executive Order, the term “underserved community” refers to a population sharing a particular characteristic, as well as a geographic community, that has been systematically denied a full opportunity to participate in aspects of economic, social, and civic life or whose members have been historically underserved, marginalized, and adversely affected by inequality. Such communities include, among others, Black people, Hispanics and Latino/a/e people, Native American and other Indigenous peoples of North America (including Alaska Natives, Eskimos, and Aleuts), Asian Americans, Native Hawaiians, and Pacific Islanders.

In support of Executive Order 13985, OJP will:

A. Give priority consideration to applications that include project(s) that will promote racial equity and the removal of barriers to access and opportunity for communities that have been historically underserved, marginalized, and adversely affected by inequality, when making award decisions.

To receive this consideration, the applicant must describe how the proposed project(s) will address potential inequities and barriers to equal opportunity, and/or contribute to greater access to services for underserved and historically marginalized populations.

B. Give priority consideration to applicants that can demonstrate that their capabilities and competencies for implementing their proposed project(s) are enhanced because the applicant (or at least one proposed subrecipient that will receive at least 30% of the requested award funding, as demonstrated in the Budget Worksheet and Budget Narrative) identifies as a culturally specific organization. To receive this additional priority consideration, applicants must describe how being a culturally specific organization (or funding the culturally specific subrecipient organization(s)) will enhance their ability to implement the proposed project (s) and should also specify which culturally specific populations are intended or expected to be served or to have their needs addressed under the proposed project(s).

Culturally specific organizations are defined for purposes of this solicitation as private nonprofit or tribal organizations whose primary purpose as a whole is to provide culturally specific services to, among others, Black people, Hispanics and Latino/a/e people, Native American and other Indigenous peoples of North America (including Alaska Natives, Eskimos, and Aleuts), Asian Americans, Native Hawaiians, and/or Pacific Islanders.

Note: Addressing these priority areas is one of many factors that OJP considers in making funding decisions. Receiving priority consideration for one or more priority areas is not a guarantee of an award.

Application Review Information

Review Criteria

Merit Review Criteria

Applications that meet the basic minimum requirements will be evaluated by peer reviewers. Applications will be evaluated on how the proposed project/program addresses the following criteria:

1. Statement of the Problem/Description of the Issue (20%) - evaluate the applicant's understanding of the program/issue to be addressed.
2. Project Design and Implementation (45%) - evaluate the adequacy of the proposal, including the goals, objectives, timelines, milestones, and deliverables.
3. Capabilities and Competencies (25%) - evaluate the administrative and technical capacity of the applicant to successfully accomplish the goals and objectives.
4. Plan for Collecting the Data Required for this Solicitation's Performance Measures (5%) - evaluate the applicant's understanding of the performance data reporting requirements and the plan for collecting the required data.
5. Budget (5%) - evaluate for completeness, cost effectiveness, and allowability (e.g., reasonable, allocable, and necessary for project activities).

Other Review Criteria/Factors

Other important considerations for OVC include geographic diversity, strategic priorities (specifically including, but not limited to, those priority areas already mentioned), available funding, past performance, and the extent to which the Budget Worksheet and Budget Narrative (web-based form) accurately explain project costs that are reasonable, necessary, and otherwise allowable under federal law and applicable federal cost principles.

Review Process

Applications submitted under this solicitation that meet the basic minimum requirements, will be evaluated for technical merit by a peer review panel(s) in accordance with OJP peer review policy and procedures using the stated review criteria listed above.

OJP screens applications to ensure they meet the basic minimum requirements prior to conducting the peer review. Although specific requirements may vary, the following are common requirements applicable to all OJP solicitations:

- The application must be submitted by an eligible type of applicant.
- The application must request funding within programmatic funding constraints (if applicable).
- The application must be responsive to the scope of the solicitation.
- The application must include all items necessary to meet the basic minimum requirements.

Pursuant to the Part 200 Uniform Requirements, before award decisions are made, OJP also reviews information related to the degree of risk posed by the applicant. Among other things to help assess whether an applicant with one or more prior federal awards has a satisfactory record with respect to performance, integrity, and business ethics, OJP checks whether the applicant is listed in SAM as excluded from receiving a federal award.

In addition, if OJP anticipates that an award will exceed $250,000 in federal funds, OJP also must review and consider any information about the applicant that appears in the non-public segment of the integrity and performance system accessible through SAM (currently, the Federal Awardee Performance and Integrity Information System, FAPIIS).

Important note on FAPIIS: An applicant may review and comment on any information about itself that currently appears in FAPIIS and was entered by a federal awarding agency. OJP will consider such comments by the applicant, in addition to the other information in FAPIIS, in its assessment of the risk posed by the applicant.

Absent explicit statutory authorization or written delegation of authority to the contrary, all final award decisions will be made by the Assistant Attorney General, who may consider not only peer review ratings and OVC recommendations, but also other factors as indicated in this section.

For additional information on these legal requirements, see the "Administrative, National Policy, and Other Legal Requirements" section in the OJP Grant Application Resource Guide.
