

INTERNATIONAL TERRORISM VICTIM EXPENSE REIMBURSEMENT PROGRAM

As part of its mission to enhance the Nation's capacity to assist crime victims and to provide leadership in changing attitudes, policies, and practices to promote justice and healing for all victims, the Office for Victims of Crime (OVC), part of the U.S. Department of Justice's Office of Justice Programs, administers the International Terrorism Victim Expense Reimbursement Program (ITVERP). ITVERP is a unique federal program that provides financial reimbursement for qualifying expenses to eligible United States nationals or employees of the United States Government who are victims of an act of international terrorism that occurs abroad.

ELIGIBILITY

There are three main requirements:

1. Terrorist Incident Occurred Outside the United States – The act of terrorism MUST have occurred outside the United States and be designated by the National Security Division of the U.S. Department of Justice as an act of international terrorism for the purposes of ITVERP.

2. U.S. Citizen, Officer, or Employee of the U.S. Government – At the time of the incident, the victim must be a U.S. citizen, an officer, or an employee the U.S. Government.

The law requires that the victim must have suffered "direct physical or emotional injury or death as a result of an act of international terrorism occurring abroad." In the case of a victim who is incompetent, incapacitated, or killed, or is a minor, a family member or legally designated representative of the victim may receive expense reimbursement on their behalf.

3. Expenses Directly Related to Terrorist Incident – The out-of-pocket expenses must be directly related to the incident.

ITVERP DEADLINES

Generally, the deadline for filing an ITVERP claim is 3 years from the date of the terrorist incident; however, the deadline may be extended, at the discretion of the OVC Director, if the applicant can show good cause for missing the filing deadline.
