Each VOCA subgrant applicant is required to address how and with what entities the applicant collaborates with or proposes to collaborate with to carry out the grant project. Applicants must promote within the community, coordinated public and private efforts to aid crime victims. Coordination may include, but is not limited to, serving on state, federal, local, or Native American task forces, commissions, working groups, coalitions, and/or multi-disciplinary teams. Coordination efforts also include developing written agreements that contribute to better and more comprehensive services to crime victims.
Please discuss the major issues in your state that either assist or prevent victims from receiving assistance during the reporting period.
Subgrantee descriptions of issues faced in their communities continue to include challenges reaching the geographically isolated survivors, with the vast majority of the state being considered rural. These survivors are faced tough economic conditions, limited transportation resources, and limited low-cost housing options. Due to the rural population distribution, many victim services programs manage a multi-county service area, adding to the challenge when an advocate may need to travel a considerable distance to meet a victim face-to-face. As a result of the limited low-cost housing, an issue in both rural and urban areas of Kansas, domestic violence survivors in particular are staying longer in shelter which means more programs operate more and more days at full capacity. The challenges surrounding resources for crime victims with mental health issues also continues to rise toward the top of the list.
Please describe ways that your agency promoted the coordination of public and private efforts within the community to help crime victims during the reporting period.
While no new initiatives occurred during the year ending September 30, 2019, the Grantee continues to coordinate with the Kansas Crime Victim Compensation Office. The Executive Director of the Office participates in committees that are working to coordinate training for those who work with crime victims (including advocates, law enforcement, and other criminal justice professionals) and presents a workshop on crime victim compensation at the Annual Crime Victims Rights Conference. In addition, the Grantee works closely with the Kansas Coalition Against Sexual and Domestic Violence and the Kansas Chapter of Children's Advocacy Centers to ensure coordination of efforts. Both agencies also participate in the above-referenced committees. Although these are not VOCA-funded activities, they illustrate the collaborative effort encouraged by VOCA. Coordination with community partners is an important topic of discussion when Analysts conduct on-site compliance reviews. Both successes and challenges are discussed and technical assistance is provided to brain-storm ideas for how to enhance community coordination. Subgrantees provide outreach through efforts that identify crime victims and ensure they are provided the services they need. When a recent mass homicide shooting occurred in the metropolitan Kansas City area, the KGGP immediately coordinated with the Kansas Crime Victim Compensation Office, Kansas City Kansas Police Department Victim Assistance Unit, Wyandotte County District Attorney's Office, and OVC Mass Violence and Terrorism Program to outline a plan for ensuring the necessary resources could be identified for providing an effective response to the many victims and family members of victims involved.
Please describe any notable activities at the grantee level during the reporting period that improved delivery of victim services.
The Governor and Attorney General continue to host the Annual Crime Victims' Rights Conference with more than 500 people attending. Professionals in victim services, law enforcement, prosecution, mental health, corrections, and more attend the training to discuss and learn about services and working with crime victims. All agencies receiving VOCA funding are required to send at least one person to this conference. The agenda focuses on training for those serving victims of crime. All subgrantees are required to attend training on the reporting requirements for the grant. In addition, the VOCA program analysts conduct site visits and compliance reporting for each grant project, as well as providing ongoing technical assistance. The KGGP is the host agency for the Kansas Academy for Victim Assistance (KAVA) with two classes being held during the previous 12 months. We are anticipating two academies to be scheduled through the end of 2020 to continue the opportunity for advocates to receive this essential foundational skill-based training.

Please discuss each priority (i.e., child abuse, domestic assault, sexual assault, and underserved) in which VOCA funds have been used to assist crime victims during the reporting period

Child Abuse—provided by child advocacy center: A child advocacy center is providing services to a total of 11 different families all of whom have had their children victimized by a 'Sex Club' taking place in an elementary school. All of the victims involved in the scandal were in the third grade, were female, and were forcefully held down and penetrated. All the victims and their families were interviewed at the center. Staff, along with MDT members working the cases, had to deliver the graphic details of victimization to the parents. Advocates began immediate crisis intervention services and assisted the families in navigating through the often-confusing lanes of state agencies that became involved. Assistance in meeting with detectives, writing law enforcement statements, and referrals to therapy and other victim services programs were provided. The advocates assisted in providing information to some of the families on how to request transfer of their children from this particular grade school to others in the community. These cases have been submitted to the County Attorney for charging decisions and, depending on what decisions are made, Advocates will prepare families for what to expect in court and work with them as long as needed. Domestic Violence—provided by domestic violence agency: A woman experiencing domestic violence in her marriage called the 24/7 crisis hotline after being referred by the state department for children and families. She was living in a very rural area with three children, and her husband was in law enforcement. She wanted to leave, however was unsure where to start and terrified of the potential violent repercussions. She began working with an advocate who helped her with a safety plan to begin the process of leaving her abusive husband. When the time came to leave, she and her children stayed in the shelter for just shy of two months. During that time, she began going to support groups, received counseling, gained employment, and advocates were able to assist her with the deposit on her new home. She filed for divorce, as well as a protection order, which he immediately violated several times and is now facing felony stalking charges. The staff have provided numerous court advocacy services for her as well as provided security cameras for her home. The criminal charges against him are ongoing, and she remains in regular contact with her advocate. Sexual Assault—provided by sexual assault agency: Staff have been meeting weekly with a rape survivor since 2018. The survivor immediately started coming for services after she had a medical advocate with her during her forensic exam. She has struggled with a lot of 'Is this normal?' feelings in her healing process and wants to make sure she works through her trauma instead of hiding it or numbing her way through it. She has been invested in her own healing process from the beginning. After about three months of coming in weekly for supportive counseling and support group, she agreed to speak at a Take Back the Night event. She did not always get supportive responses when she disclosed her sexual assault to loved ones, so she is using this opportunity to talk about how we (as a community) can do better. She has taken on a leadership role within the support group and helps facilitate group activities and topics for discussion. For International Women's Day, her workplace set up a station where you could write a letter to a woman who was influential in your life. She wrote a letter to her advocate that said, "Thank you for helping me find my own voice and your encouragement behind me. You really helped me through times I was struggling with and let me know I wasn't 'crazy' or 'spiraling.' You've always helped keep me grounded. Most important you help me see my full potential." Underserved—provided by DUI victim agency: In April 2019, a woman was killed in a four-vehicle crash. Two vehicles were traveling north on an area highway when one vehicle struck the rear of the woman's vehicle, pushing it into the southbound lane of oncoming traffic. The woman's vehicle was struck by someone in the southbound lane, pushing her vehicle into the ditch, where she was then struck a third time. This woman did not survive the crash. The MADD Kansas Program Manager reached out to the victim's family and provided an application for Crime Victims Compensation, contact information for the County Attorney's Office, civil attorney referrals, and offered references for counseling services. The Program Manager continues to work with the family as they are frustrated that charges have yet to be filed as the County Attorney awaits toxicology results. The family is now nervous about prosecution of this case as one of the lead officers who worked the crash will be leaving on military deployment. Given this concern, Program Manager is working with the family and County Attorney's Office to ensure the case moves forward with prosecution.

Please briefly describe efforts taken to serve Victims of Federal crime during the reporting period.

Any federal crime victim seeking assistance from a VOCA-funded subgrantee is entitled to and will receive direct services. In addition, all crime victims receive compensation information when they come in contact with a subgrantee program. Federal victim/witness staff is invited to participate in trainings sponsored by this office, including the Kansas Academy for Victim Assistance and the Annual Crime Victims Rights Conference co-hosted by the Kansas Governor and Attorney General. VOCA subgrantees serve federal crime victims by going to court proceedings with the victims to offer support and answer questions about the court process; helping victims file applications with the Crime Victims Compensation Board, providing information and referrals regarding other community resources; and providing counseling, therapy, treatment, and safe shelter for victims.

Please identify any emerging issues or notable trends affecting crime victim services in your state during the reporting period.

Feedback from subgrantees regarding issues impacting services continue to include navigating services for victims with more specialized needs, which also increases the demand for qualified trained staff. Human trafficking continues as an ever-increasingly discussed issue, at both the national level as well as in Kansas. Domestic violence agencies are still reporting that the level of violence continues to escalate. As has been the case for several years, the lack of affordable housing, mental health and substance abuse counseling, child care, and qualified legal assistance continues as major challenges in Kansas. VOCA funds have assisted with expansion of mental health and legal assistance in numerous areas around the State, although with each expansion of services, more needs arise. As the overall population ages, agencies are working to increase elder abuse-focused services and outreach efforts. As is the case nationally, there is an increase in the connection between drug use and crime. Methamphetamine and opioid addiction is showing a direct impact on numbers of crimes committed against victims, including violent crimes, fraud-related crimes, abuse of the elderly and children, and property crimes.

Please briefly outline any staffing retention issues that your victim assistance program has and why these issues may occur during the reporting period.

While the increase in VOCA funds has allowed programs to increase staff, salaries and benefits, retention of qualified staff continues to challenge agencies in rural areas. Also, with larger projects to manage, the need for qualified administrative staff increases.

Please explain your state process to publicize its victim assistance funding for services to victims of crime during the reporting period.

The KGGP maintains a distribution list of email addresses for organizations and agencies eligible to apply. The League of Kansas Municipalities and the Kansas Association for Counties also are notified and post information to their membership. Our office provides the Kansas Secretary of State's Office with a copy of the notice to be published in the Kansas Register. In addition, the grant solicitation packet may be accessed via the Internet on the Governor's website.

Please explain how your state is able to direct funding to new/underserved populations during the reporting period.

The Kansas VOCA Strategic Plan includes the goal of funding services to identify underserved communities and underserved populations. Applicants for VOCA funding are encouraged to address the goals of the Kansas VOCA strategic plan.

Please explain how your program is able to respond to gaps in services during the reporting period.

By enhancing and expanding access to victim services such as crisis response agencies; law enforcement-based advocates; prosecutor-based advocates, both county and city level; and agencies providing services specifically to disabled victims, many of the service needs and/or gaps have been met or alleviated. The KGGP has responded to the identified gaps in services by funding additional mileage requests, requests for additional court service providers and additional legal service funds, additional advocacy services dollars for therapeutic services, bilingual services providers, translation services, and specialized training opportunities. There are projects that provide specialized elder abuse and human trafficking services as well. Open communication is maintained with the Kansas Attorney General's office, the Kansas Coalition Against Sexual and Domestic Violence and the KGGP to encourage discussion to identify gaps and respond. In addition, subgrantees are encouraged to contact their Analyst if any issues arise. The KGGP has begun the process of preparing for an updated state strategic plan. A statewide needs assessment is in the initial stages of development.
