NA

Describe any program policies changed during the reporting period.

During the reporting period, states were granted the ability to approve match waivers for subrecipients. As required, this new policy developed by the Ohio Attorney General's Office (OAG), was submitted and approved. This is the only policy that changed during the reporting period.

Describe any earned media coverage events/episodes during the reporting period.

During the reporting period, following the release of grants in October 2018 and October 2019, various media outlets throughout the state ran print and radio stories about the large amounts of funding awarded to victim services providers.

Describe any coordinated responses/services for assisting crime victims during the reporting period.

-On August 4th, 2019, a 24 male fatally shot 9 people and wounded 17 people outside of a bar in the Oregon District in downtown Dayton, Ohio. Law enforcement fatally shot the assailant 32 seconds after the shooting began. Among the victims was the sister of the assailant. It's unknown the exact motivation of the shooting, or if the assailant was aware his sister was among the victims. Immediately following the incident, the OAG and the Ohio Crisis Response Team reported to Dayton, Ohio to begin immediately supporting those affected by the incident and linking them with services including Victims of Crime Compensation. In the weeks/months following, the OAG met with many partners in the Dayton, Ohio area and with OVC to begin working to provide any additional financial or programmatic support to the community affected by this incident.

Please discuss the major issues in your state that either assist or prevent victims from receiving assistance during the reporting period.

-Because Ohio is majority rural, lack of transportation remains a large barrier to receiving services outside of Columbus, Cleveland, Cincinnati, and Akron, which have public transit. In these rural communities, there are no taxi companies and Uber/Lyft is not available. Many victims rely on friends or family to transport them to appointments/criminal justice services.
-Ohio is the center of the nation's opiate epidemic. Southeastern Ohio continues to be the epicenter of the addiction crisis. Because of this, many victims are often not able to receive services.

Please describe ways that your agency promoted the coordination of public and private efforts within the community to help crime victims during the reporting period.

The OAG held roundtables in a couple of the densely populated areas (Cleveland & Columbus), to bring together all VOCA funded service providers in that area. The purpose of these meetings were for all funded programs to learn more about what other agencies in their community are doing. Because of the large population in these areas, some service providers are unaware of certain agencies. In times of financial instability, it can be greatly helpful to be aware of other service providers in their area that may be able to provide a specific service that the victims they serve need, but they do not have funding to provide themselves.

Please describe any notable activities at the grantee level during the reporting period that improved delivery of victim services.

During the reporting period, the victim satisfaction/outcome measurement survey became available electronically for VOCA funded programs to distribute to victims. Many times, physical copies of the survey were not being returned at a high success rate. Since implementing an online option, response rates have increased for victims.

Please discuss each priority (i.e., child abuse, domestic assault, sexual assault, and underserved) in which VOCA funds have been used to assist crime victims during the reporting period

Child Abuse-- During the reporting period, the OAG released a VOCA RFP for children's services. Historically, there have been less funded services available for children throughout the state. Through this initiative, Cleveland established the city's first child advocacy center. Previously, Cleveland was one of the largest cities in the nation that did not have an operating child advocacy center. The CAC held a "soft opening" for several months and provided the services within the city of Cleveland before expanding to the entire county. During this soft opening, the CAC received over 500 referrals from family and children services just within the city of Cleveland. Anecdotal comments about child serving programs 1. Victim Comment: Everyone was so thoughtful & super nice. I felt they were very professional and made my son feel very safe. Great experience & appreciate your services you have for people. 2. Advocate was one of the greatest blessings we received during this very difficult time. She was compassionate, attentive, kind, caring and went above and beyond. I cannot imagine what we would have done without her guidance and help during the process. We truly gained a friend! Domestic Violence- during the reporting period, VOCA funded subgrantees provided services to an average of 35,971 victims each quarter. Anecdotal Stories 1. Sue was an elderly woman living in extreme self-neglect. She had terrible sores on her legs and deplorable living conditions from hoarding and living with a boyfriend. The couple often lived in the vehicle due to conditions of the property. Her home was condemned from hoarding and unsanitary conditions. Her overall health was not stable. She self-neglected and went against medical orders to return to the unsafe living conditions. Guardianship was initiated for her protection on a hospital visit. All other measures attempted by APS to provide for stability had failed for her. She is strong-willed and did not recognize the victimization she was causing for herself. She failed to acknowledge her weakened health status and spread of infection into her system. Her cognitive ability to make rational decisions is extremely compromised from lack of insight to the current situation. The guardian was established and placement was made at a local facility. The extent of wound care and clearing of the infections took weeks. Her nutrition has been greatly enhanced and overall care given to meet ongoing needs. She is still a bit paranoid with interventions offered for stabilization and, at times, rejects efforts being initiated such as medications. Overall, her health has rebounded and quality of life increased. Sue is engaging in environment and conversations. Sexual Assault- *Anecdotal comments from survivors" 1. My counseling has helped me so much. I'm very grateful and thankful for the services provided for me! - The worst aspect of being the victim of crime for me is that it had become a permanent status, a sort of "forever identifier". Once a victim, forever that victim. Thanks to this program, I don't feel that way. There's a sort of huge crossroads: A) A Victim or B) A Survivor? The program lets me choose B. What a difference. - A wonderful resource! Underserved Anecdotal comments from victims 1. We had a Moroccan client bring us cookies her grandmother had made for us and small item from her country. An Ethiopian client came in to thank us-she travelled back home to see her family after 4 years.

Please briefly describe efforts taken to serve Victims of Federal crime during the reporting period.

All VOCA funded organizations are required to list on all publications and outreach materials funded by VOCA that they are available to serve victims of federal crimes. Many human trafficking organizations throughout the state are continuing to build relationships with the FBI due to an increase in cases of human trafficking, particularly within massage parlors.

Please identify any emerging issues or notable trends affecting crime victim services in your state during the reporting period.

The opiate epidemic remains a top trend among victims of crime. Many victims have addiction issues, and nearly all of our programs are providing services to individuals with addiction issues. Training for these organizations about working with this population is extremely important.

Please briefly outline any staffing retention issues that your victim assistance program has and why these issues may occur during the reporting period.

The OAG did not experience any notable retention issues with VOCA grants unit staff during the reporting period.

Please explain your state process to publicize its victim assistance funding for services to victims of crime during the reporting period.

To announce the acceptance of applications for VOCA, a mass email campaign is initiated. These emails are sent to all individuals who have registered accounts in our grants management system, as well as several list serves that many services providers are on. In addition, a press release is sent to media outlets with the announcement. Typically, we announce the application season in conjunction with our annual Two Days in May Conference, which is attended by over 1500 victim service and social services providers throughout the state.

Please explain how your state is able to direct funding to new/underserved populations during the reporting period.

The OAG spends a large amount of time identifying organizations throughout the state that are serving populations that are often missed by "traditional" victim services providers, and uses funding to support services through these agencies. In the current grant period, victims of gun violence, male sexual assault survivors, victims of gang violence, and victims of physical assaults were noted as being underserved. VOCA funds were awarded to several hospital-based victim services providers throughout the state where many victims impacted by these crimes are interacting with. These Trauma Recovery Centers are providing services to populations that have not previously been served by other providers. In addition to these centers, the OAG worked with an organization that serves victims with disabilities to establish protocol for forensic interviewing for adult victims that have developmental disabilities. From this, one of the nation's first Adult Advocacy Centers is close to being fully operational. These regional centers will serve as hubs for services for adult victims of crime who have developmental disabilities.

Please explain how your program is able to respond to gaps in services during the reporting period.

Many times, when a major gap is identified, the OAG is able to immediately work with various victim services providers in communities to determine a plan for addressing these gaps, and award funding to these organizations to fill the gap. The gaps vary greatly between rural and urban areas, so the OAG continues to work with organizations in both geographical zones to identify gaps, and respond accordingly.

Please list and explain any outcome measure(s) that are reported to the governor, legislature, or other state entity during the reporting period.

Ohio does not have any mandated reports that are submitted to other entities.
