Describe any coordinated responses/services for assisting crime victims during the reporting period.

The VOCA Administrator has coordinated with the Department of Education and the State Emergency Management to discuss resources available in the event of a mass violence incident. The State Emergency Manager has invited the VOCA Administrator to be a part of the State's crisis response should there be a mass violence incident. Regular meetings are being held to coordinate responses to victim services and all local emergency being handled.

The State Department of Education is actively involved in providing trauma training to educators, in part because of a meeting between the VOCA Administrator and the Secretary of Education, to discuss resources available after mass violence or any incident involving crimes committed against school children. Victims Compensation, Victims Assistance, and Trauma training were the topics discussed.

Prosecutor-based victim advocates funded through VOCA are part of the Coordinated Community Response Teams and the Sexual Assault Response Teams, as are many non-profits funded through VOCA. The teams consist of professionals from law enforcement, the medical field, tribal agencies, advocates from DV/SA programs, counselors, and higher education associates working with students. They meet monthly and come together to take action providing full service to victims of domestic violence and sexual assault so they are able to get all available resources and needed help. They also focus on coordinating training on how to not re-victimize these individuals and keep them safe. There are also many local examples of coordinated responses at the subgrante level.

Please describe the major issues in your state that either assist or prevent victims from receiving assistance during the reporting period.

Even with all of the VOCA funds that have been disbursed in Oklahoma, there remains: 1) a lack of adequate funding to meet all of the needs of victims, particularly legal services, transportation, jobs, child care, mental health services and long-term affordable housing; 2) a lack of qualified volunteers; 3) a lack of affordable drug rehabilitation facilities, counseling, job training, education and affordable housing available for their use as victims of a crime; 4) a lack of adult mental health services (short and long-term); 5) a lack of emergency funding to replace medications and small medical devices that are commonly lost or damaged during an assault; 6) a lack of jobs and housing services for victims with a criminal record; 7) a lack of day cares that provide after hours services for victims working early evenings; 8) formal counseling for children in shelters; 9) a lack of counseling services in rural areas; 10) long counseling wait lists that discourage many victims from getting help; 11) limited number of advocates at a time when crime is increasing; 12) limited number of available counselors; 13) a lack of crisis stabilization services; 14) a lack of adequate child care at all hours; 15) inadequate funding to relocate all victims who need it; 16) reluctance of victims to continue treatment because they are not being charged from health plans; 17) limited resources for medical care for victims of domestic violence and sexual assault when the patient is uninsured – limited pro bono services available; and 18) an outbreak of syphilis in Oklahoma and insufficient resources to address the outbreak.

Please describe your agency promoted the coordination of public and private efforts within the community to help crime victims during the reporting period.

Each applicant, within their VOCA application, must clearly describe how they will coordinate victim services with local courts, law enforcement agencies, criminal justice officials, crime victims compensation, and other victim service providers. A demonstration of coordinated public and private efforts is essential to receiving VOCA funding. In addition, new projects are required to submit MOUs and Letters of Support for the project. The 9-member VOCA Board continues to consider community coordination a top priority. Technical assistance is available to applicants who wish to know more about how to coordinate efforts in their community.

Please describe any notable activities at the grantee level during the reporting period that improved delivery of victim services.

Re-hearing the State-Tribal Crime Victim Liaison improved delivery of victim services within Tribal communities. Also, the launching of the Victims Compensation Online Application system improved delivery of services to victims. The VOCA funds were used to continue existing projects and fund new projects throughout the State. There are no targeted RFPs – an activity that is allowable under the VOCA rule, funding is considered. More civil legal services statewide continues to be a significant need and a priority of the VOCA Board, as is maintaining funding for Tribal victim services. The program has been successful in obligating all of the 2016, 2017 and majority of the 2019 federal award; increasing technical assistance and monitoring efforts; processing vouchers in the PeopleSoft Grant Project Costing Module; and improving communication between staff and subrecipients. The program also successfully completed the first year of the OVC Building State Capacity Grant; and is currently utilizing the PMT upload feature in the OVCPTM system for PMT reports.

For each type of crime (i.e., child abuse, domestic abuse, sexual assault, and underserved) in which VOCA funds have been used to assist crime victims during the reporting period

1) Child Abuse (14.3%): A Child Abuse Center (CAC) was contacted due to allegations of a 5 year old and 3 year old being exposed to physical abuse due to excessive punishment by their father. The CAC was contacted and implemented a team response and notified key coordinated community response team members. The forensic interview was conducted resulting in the father ultimately charged with child abuse. A sixteen year old boy's parents divorced when the boy was four years old and neither parent wanted to raise the boy. After negative events at five different foster homes the boy went back to the youth shelter severely depressed. The victim advocate worked with the boy and he became stable and shortly thereafter he was able to go to group home. 2) Underserved (25%): A full time, advocate responds to the needs of Women is Common, Chilling – and Other a Grim Harbinger (Oklahoma Watch) 19
3) Sexual Assault – Media Hits from October 1, 2018 through September 30, 2019 - linked provided when available 1) Mary's Law for Oklahoma Launches Digital Campaign Featuring Crime Victims and Advocates 2) still attending the program's DV support group weekly. 4) Sexual Assault (12.7%): A middle school female student was being sexually assaulted by her step-father every day for years. The step-father video-taped all the incidents of sexual and physical abuse. He would use the abuse and recordings so the victim would not tell anyone about the abuse. Law enforcement became actively engaged in the case when the step-father fled the country. The step-father later returned and was arrested. The advocate accompanied the victim for interviews at the CAC, met the victim at school, arranged for the victim to eat in a teacher's classroom where she felt safe, and helped her focus on grades and attendance. The advocate was able to offer therapeutic resources to the female student and the non-offending family supporting her. When she transitioned to high school, the advocate introduced the student to the high school advocate to develop the relationship and create a safe place when needed. In another case, an advocate has been involved with a young high school student who at this time had three young children. She has been through a life filled with drugs and violence. After hearing the story about her boyfriend/babies and father, the VOCA-funded program started putting together a plan to help her graduate and become employed. The victim's father had also been violent towards her and has sexually assaulted her on occasion. The VOCA program contacted law enforcement who in turn connected the program to the detectives who would work the case. The sexual assault survivor was then connected to an agency who would help her if she decided to file charges. The advocate helped her get a VPO as well as going to court with her. The judge talked to them and helped put together a plan for her and her children.

Please briefly describe efforts taken to serve Victims of Federal crime during the reporting period.

The VOCA Administrator and staff have regular communication with all U.S. Attorney Victim Specialists and the FBI Specialist in the State to discuss matters of importance in Indian Country and services for victims of federal crimes in those communities. VOCA administrative funds were used to re-hire the State-Tribal Liaison in March 2019 and Tribal Roundtables were planned for the fall of 2019. This is an ongoing effort to bring attention to the needs of victims in Tribal jurisdictions in Oklahoma and brings together Tribal, State, Federal and Local victim service providers to collaborate and learn about resources available to crime victims in each area.

Please identify any emerging issues or notable trends affecting crime victim services in your state during the reporting period.

An emerging issue impacting crime victim services is the Criminal Justice Reform initiatives taking place at the State Capitol. These measures are having negative consequence for crime victims as the commutation of sentences is retriggering trauma for certain crime victims. Serious drug crimes that were once felonies are now misdemeanors. The push continues to lessen offender accountability by reducing sentences and reducing fees and assessments paid by offenders that are used to directly assist crime victims in many areas. There is a constant need for victim rights and trauma-informed training for law enforcement, judges, attorneys, prosecutors and advocates. In addition, access to rehabilitation and substance abuse treatment is a major problem in Oklahoma. The combination of the most liberal drug laws in the country that took effect July 1, 2017, and a lack of substance abuse and mental health treatment will only lead to more victimization in the coming years. In smaller communities, a lack of public transportation and high poverty rates provide limited resources and very little options for many victims. Another emerging issue that will impact crime victims in years to come is the passage of enhanced victim rights which will place a larger demand on the need for advocates in prosecutor offices to afford victims their constitutional rights. The State of Oklahoma has yet to fund the criminal justice system at the level needed to fully implement all of the victim's rights provisions. There is an ongoing need for training all criminal justice system workers on the amendments to the victims rights laws. The increased requirements in victims rights come at a time when the criminal justice funding has been diminished and the future of VOCA Assistance support is now in question due to the reduction in deposits to the Federal Crime Victims Fund. This is a serious dilemma we are facing: at a time when we have the highest demand for enhanced victims rights, we are witnessing a sensitivity to criminals resulting in a commutation of offender sentences and a reduction in fines and fees that support crime victims compensation and other victims services. In addition, we are now being informed that the Federal Crime Victims Fund is in danger of depletion in less than 3 years which will eliminate all of the wonderful progress made the past 4 years to improve services to crime victims, particularly in the area of civil legal services. We are facing the reality of having to cut existing programs by 75% in the next 24 months.

Please briefly outline any staffing retention issues that your victim assistance program has and why these issues may occur during the reporting period.

There are no staffing retention issues. An additional VOCA compliance officer was added in order to assist the SAA ensure that all subrecipients are complying with the special conditions of the grant. In addition, the District Attorneys Council re-hired the State-Tribal Crime Victim Liaison.

Please explain your state process to publicize its victim assistance funding for services to crime victims during the reporting period.

The SAA publicizes the victim assistance funding opportunities by mailing funding announcements to: existing programs, statewide coalitions, all Sheriffs and Chiefs of Police, all District Attorneys, and all Tribes. The request for funding proposal is also e-mailed to listservs and e-mail addresses of all those who have requested to be put on the VOCA funding announcement mailing list.

Please explain how your state is able to direct funding to new/underserved populations during the reporting period.

The State directs funding for new/underserved populations by encouraging existing projects to reach out to the underserved in their communities, particularly American Indian Tribes. Oklahoma is unique because it is a checkerboard jurisdiction between state and Tribal jurisdictions. Tribal programs are encouraged to apply for VOCA funds and are provided technical assistance during the application process.

Please explain how your program is able to respond to gaps in services during the reporting period.

Prior to the new VOCA rule being enacted, we heard time and again that the biggest gap in services related to civil legal services for crime victims. We addressed this gap by funding 21 separate Legal Aid grants aimed at providing legal services throughout the State. These Legal Aid projects collaborate with the local DV/SA programs in every area of the State. Another gap identified continues to be legal services in Indian Country. The VOCA Board is addressing this gap by continuing to fund civil legal services provided by the Native Alliance Against Violence Circle Project. This project funds attorneys with knowledge of Tribal code who can assist victims of crime in Tribal Court with Victim Protective Orders, child custody, and other legal difficulties crime victims face. With the implementation of the Marsys Law State Constitutional Amendment that was passed by a ballot measure November 6, 2018, we anticipate the roles of the VOCA-funded attorneys may expand as they may be asked to also advocate for the constitutional rights of the crime victim throughout the criminal case.

Please list and explain any outcome measure(s) that are reported to the governor, legislature, or other state entity during the reporting period.

No outcome measures were required in 2018/2019.
