OVSJG updated their Match Waiver Request Policy to comply with VOCA Fix to Sustain the Crime Victims Fund Act of 2021 (Public Law No: 117- 27) and 28 CFR 94.118 VOCA Assistance Program Match Requirement guidelines. The following language includes "All match waiver requests submitted during a pandemic national emergency, and for one year after it ends, will be approved."
Describe any earned media coverage events/episodes during the reporting period.
NVRDC was featured in several local papers about the rise of domestic violence throughout the pandemic. The articles were specific features during domestic violence awareness month in October including Washington City Paper, Washingtonian, and The Hoya. In quarter 3, NVRDC received media mentions from a high profile case in the Washington, DC area. NVRDC represented 3 survivors in the criminal legal process against a former high school rowing coach. The arrest and criminal charges were followed closely by media outlets in DC. NVRDC was quoted in several media outlets including The Washington Post, Bethesda Magazine, and MyMcM. During the grant period, Safe Shores Director of Forensic Services, Rachel Booker, appeared on an episode of Ballard Spahr's podcast Business Better (Season 2, Episode 15) to discuss the role of the forensic interview in a trauma-informed approach to the investigation of child sexual abuse allegations.
Describe any coordinated responses/services for assisting crime victims during the reporting period.

Office for Victims of Crime - Performance Measurement Tool (PMT)

NVRDC continues to provide a coordinated response for sexual assault survivors funded by the Office of Victim Services and Justice grants. This response includes the Metropolitan Police Department, DC Forensic Nurse Examiners, DC Rape Crisis Center, and the DC Victim Hotline. This response serves as the acute response for sexual assault survivors seeking accompaniment from an advocate during the police interview either on-scene or at the hospital, and accompaniment for survivors seeking a medical forensic examination. In FY22, NVRDC served 273 sexual assault survivors seeking care, evidence collection, reporting accompaniment, and advocacy. Safe Shores coordinates that multidisciplinary response, which includes scheduling and conducting forensic interviews, convening the appropriate public and private agencies involved, victim services, and multi-agency reviews for these cases. This is accomplished working in conjunction with DC's Multidisciplinary Team on Child Abuse Investigations, also known as DC's MDT. The MDT includes the Metropolitan Police Department, the Office of the Attorney General for the District of Columbia, Child and Family Services Agency, Children's National Medical Center, the United States Attorney's Office for the District of Columbia, and Safe Shores. Ayuda also repeatedly engaged with other area service providers to improve services, identify changes to the practice landscape for immigrant crime victims, and come up with responses to those changes, to ensure smooth referrals from one organization to another for services.

Please discuss the major issues in your state that either assist or prevent victims from receiving assistance during the reporting period.

Ayuda provides through our VOCA Crime Victims Program, availability of affordable housing (and access to long-term housing programs for undocumented immigrants) remains a major issue affecting clients. Something in DC that helps immigrant crime victims is that DC offers a local Medicaid healthcare program regardless of immigration status that enables clients access to more affordable medical treatment than that available, for instance, in neighboring states that do not have such a program. With the return of students to in-person schooling at the beginning of the reporting period, Safe Shores saw an increase in the number of victims coming to the attention of authorities and being referred to Safe Shores for services. However, the number of cases referred to Safe Shores is still lower than our pre-pandemic average. Victims continue to struggle find safe and secure long-term housing. The District is small and incredibly expensive. Without the ability to meet their basic needs, survivors struggle to engage consistently with services.

Please describe ways that your agency promoted the coordination of public and private efforts within the community to help crime victims during the reporting period.

The Office of Victim Services and Justice Grants continues to coordinate the Victim Assistance Network (VAN) meetings where all grant funded organizations strive to ensure that all victims of crime in the District of Columbia will have the opportunity to access justice as each victim defines it, achieve restoration, and access services. The mission of the VAN is to facilitate a network of victim service providers in the District of Columbia that ensures efficient, victim-centered, and best-practices informed continuum of victim services in the District of Columbia, through a partnership between public and private stakeholders that is based on mutual respect, collaboration, and progressive policy and program development.

Please describe any notable activities at the grantee level during the reporting period that improved delivery of victim services.

During the reporting period, the Office of Victim Services and Justice Grants released an additional request for Applications to award District local funds to support: Direct client support (flexible funding) for victims/survivors of domestic violence, sexual assault, stalking, and human trafficking – up to $1,248,324. American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) federal funds were awarded to support: Domestic violence housing and temporarily expand services to meet increased levels of need related to COVID-19-up to $995,858.

Please discuss each priority (i.e., child abuse, domestic assault, sexual assault, and underserved) in which VOCA funds have been used to assist crime victims during the reporting period

Ayuda's focus area has been on supporting immigrant victims of crime. Funds have been used to support immigrant victims by: (1) providing comprehensive culturally and linguistically appropriate case management, emergency financial assistance and psychosocial support, and by providing a food pantry to victims, and (2) by providing legal advice and representation to immigrant victims relating to their immigration status. Tzedek DC remains the only OVSJG VOCA sub-grantee focused principally on standing up for the victims of economic exploitation (fraud, identity theft, and scams), which is defined as an underserved population. A VOCA sub-award funded NVRDC to provide services to victims of all crime types in the District. Approximately 75% of clients served are sexual assault survivors who enter services through the sexual assault crisis response. Safe Shores Client Advocacy Services and Forensic Services programs provide direct services to child victims or sexual and/or physical abuse in the District of Columbia, and enable the MDT Advancement & Support program to coordinate the District's multi-disciplinary response to investigations of abuse. The Women's Center RESTORE program continues its role as a critical partner in DC's coordinated community response to sexual assault, domestic violence, and stalking by (1) providing trauma informed recovery services including: individual therapy and Psychoeducation Workshops to victims of these violent crimes; (2) ensuring an unbroken referral process is maintained for Restore clients so that they are supported and aided as they move through the mental health, civil/criminal justice, and legal systems; and (3) maintaining proactive outreach to victims and DC-based service providers to inform them about sexual assault, domestic violence, stalking, and the services provided by Restore and its partners.

Please briefly describe efforts taken to serve Victims of Federal crime during the reporting period.

Network for Victim Recovery, DC (NVRDC) works with federal prosecutors from the United States Attorney's Office for the District of Columbia. NVRDC served one victim of child pornography that was tried as a Federal crime. NVRDC provided crime victims rights representation including asking for restitution.

Please identify any emerging issues or notable trends affecting crime victim services in your state during the reporting period.

The pandemic period has seen a large volume of scams related to COVID-19. Others have engaged in price gouging in violation of DC law, which caps price increases during an emergency at 10%, with two-thirds of all price gouging violations taking place in areas of DC with lower average incomes and higher concentrations of African American residents (Southeast DC). A notable trend that affected crime victims was the discovery of an issue with law enforcement practices to classify attempted homicides as property crimes. NVRDC assisted survivors whose homes were targeted by gun violence but, due to law enforcement practices, these crimes were not classified as violent offenses. These survivors feared for their lives but were not eligible for traditional assistance through Crime Victims Compensation because property crime is not considered an eligible offense. Given DC's unique position in which federal prosecutors are responsible for presenting DC criminal cases, Ayuda has worked with federal prosecutors in cases in which Ayuda's clients have been crime victims in the District. The Women's Center is experiencing a steady increase in the number of LGBTQ clients who have been victims of domestic violence. The Center and Whitman-Walker Clinic (WWH) partnered together to improve access to and availability of services for LGBT people who have been victims of crimes.

Please briefly outline any staffing retention issues that your victim assistance program has and why these issues may occur during the reporting period.

Nationally, there is more demand for behavioral health treatment than workforce capacity to deliver services. Attrition of the current workforce, demand for higher salaries, and burnout from increased demand brought on by the COVID-19 pandemic underlie what has become a national behavioral health workforce shortage crisis. During the grant period of performance, The Women's Center lost 6 mental health providers (10% of the Center's therapists) due to higher paying jobs in other organizations including 2 Restore therapists, it took the Center over 3 months to hire replacement therapists. Network for Victim Recovery, DC (NVRDC) saw higher than normal turnover of staff. In part, the turnover was due to staffing moving out of the area for jobs that were virtual and did not require in-person components. Additionally, with high inflation rates NVRDC has struggled to keep competitive salaries for direct service staff when compared to federal and local government, and private sector roles.

Please explain your state process to publicize its victim assistance funding for services to victims of crime during the reporting period.

Office for Victims of Crime - Performance Measurement Tool (PMT)

OVSJG typically publishes funding opportunities in the DC Register, the District's Funding Alert, and its website. OVSJG usually issues a Notice of Funding Availability (NOFA) to alert the community of the availability of funds. The NOFA is a brief summary description of the funding initiative; amount of funding available; eligible recipients; and instructions for obtaining a copy of the RFA. Whenever OVSJG releases a NOFA, it will typically be published in the DC Register and the District's Funding Alert at least one (1) week before the release of an RFA. OVSJG will also attempt to publish both the NOFA and RFA in its own website.

Please explain how your state is able to direct funding to new/underserved populations during the reporting period.

In addition to the aforementioned sources, OVSJG will try to distribute the NOFAs/RFAs through its network of community-based and funding organizations, which may include OVSJG's current sub-grantees and a number of community-based organizations, funders, listservs and resource agencies that serve or represent a cross section of potential applicants.

Please explain how your program is able to respond to gaps in services during the reporting period.

The Office of Victim Services and Justice Grants requires all OVSJG funded programs to actively participate and coordinate efforts to best serve and fill any gaps in services to victims of crime. Quarterly, DC Victim Assistance Network meetings are held as an opportunity to build professional partnerships and identify coordination opportunities within Washington, DC. One effort from Network of Victim Recovery, DC that has continued to evolve since last reporting period is an expansion of services to help survivors appeal decisions made by DC's Crime Victims Compensation Program. Under this effort NVRDC staff are able to ensure that survivors of crime know their rights as it relates to appealing decisions from the compensation program. Another effort that was created to meet victim s needs was an expansion of services to provide short-term in-house mental health therapy for survivors of sexual and domestic violence. Therapeutic Services Manager provides between 3 and 5 sessions for survivors that may only want a short-term therapeutic intervention or while they are waiting to enter long-term mental health counseling that sometimes takes months to get off a waitlist.

Please list and explain any outcome measure(s) that are reported to the governor, legislature, or other state entity during the reporting period.

Per reporting period quarter, OVSJG reports the following key performance indicators (KPI) to the City Administrator, Deputy Mayor of Public Safety and Justice and the Mayor of the District of Columbia: -percent of victims who receive information, support, or a referral from DC Victim Hotline call takers to address caller needs -percent of victims of attempted homicide or homicide who received on-call advocacy at the time of the access to service -percent of victims who received language interpretation services of those that requested services -percent of sexual assault victims who received on-call advocacy at police and/or hospital at the time of access -percent of sub-grantees that are in full compliance of federal and local requirements -percent of budgeted federal grant funds lapse d at the end of the fiscal year -percent of budgeted local grant funds lapsed at the end of the fiscal year -percent of participants in professional education programs who reported learning.
