NARRATIVE QUESTIONS

1. Please explain any significant change in the number of applications received during the reporting period.

The Bureau of Victim Compensation received 10,828 compensation claims and 5,783 sexual battery forensic examination claims during FFY 2020-21, which collectively is 14.6% fewer than the prior year. Effective March-2021, the department implemented Florida Administrative Codes 2A-2.2001(43), which limited relocation assistance to interim shelter and housing expenses, and 2A-2.2002(4)(c), F.A.C., which required documentation that substantiated the need for relocation compensation from the onset of the claim. To ensure victims had access to all relocation services, assistance with ancillary relocation costs were provided directly by the domestic violence and rape crisis centers who secured reimbursement through existing VOCA-Assistance sub-grants. By separating what Compensation and Assistance could pay for, the volume of relocation claims the department received diminished because victims had an alternate resource for ancillary expenses. During the first two quarters of this period and prior to the administrative code revisions, the department received 2,269 relocation applications, whereas, during the last two quarters following the implementation of revised codes, the department received only 1,142 relocation applications.

2. The average length of time to process an application for claim eligibility for compensation

Count days from time of receipt of application to decision. 27

Please explain your state's procedure for processing an application for claim eligibility, from time of receipt of application to decision. The process is initiated when a Victim Compensation Claim Form is submitted to the Bureau of Victim Compensation. The form is data entered into the system used to manage compensation claims, assigned a number, and reviewed by a trained Claims Analyst to determine if the eligibility criterion pursuant to law is met. If the form is not accompanied by acceptable documentation to substantiate the request for compensation, correspondences are generated to seek said documents. If the claim is determined eligible, compensable expenses submitted with the application are addressed, and/or the victim/applicant is notified to submit additional compensable expenses for payment consideration.

3. Does your state have a victim satisfaction survey?

No

4. Please describe any emerging/major issues or notable trends that were encountered in your state that had an impact on your program's ability to meet the needs of crime victims during the reporting period.

To improve the sustainability of the Crimes Compensation Trust Fund, and permissible by DOJ Title 28, Code of Federal Regulations, s. 94.119 (l), relocation costs were bifurcated between the Bureau of Victim Compensation and VOCA-Assistance which is administered by the Bureau of Advocacy and Grants Management, so that victims needs were met. The department redirected center executives to their VOCA-Assistance Grant Manager for purposes of collecting reimbursement through their sub-grants for allowable ancillary costs. Center representatives were encouraged to work with victims during the safety planning process to address ancillary expenses associated with each victim's personalized escape plan. The Bureau of Victim Compensation modified Florida Administrative Codes which redefined relocation as interim shelter and housing and secured documentation from the onset of those claims. As a result, the department received 33.4% fewer relocation claims with a cost savings of $1,252,371 from the previous FFY. In addition, the department sought to improve the sustainability of the trust fund by obtaining a sub-grant to reimburse costs associated with payment of sexual battery forensic examination claims, permissible by DOJ Title 28, Code of Federal Regulations, s. 94.119 (g). With guidance from the Office for Victims of Crime, the department established an annual payment threshold. After the threshold was exhausted, the sub-grant was activated as the department continued to process claims and report those activities while seeking reimbursement from VOCA-Assistance. Without the sub-grant, the trust fund was otherwise unable to comply with a legislative mandate that doubled the maximum benefit amount payable on sexual battery forensic examination claims. Outcomes of the administrative code revisions and forensic examination sub-grant include the potential for restoring compensatory maximums for all benefit types to the amounts prior to the budget shortfall experienced in September-2019.

5. Please describe in detail efforts taken to serve Victims of Federal Crime during the reporting period.

The Bureau of Victim Compensation continues to maintain excellent rapport with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, U.S. Attorney's Offices, and advocates affiliated with different branches of the armed forces by attending meetings, offering presentations, facilitating training, and working collaboratively in response to mass shootings deemed federal jurisdiction. The department also responded to requests for information from the International Terrorism Victim Expense Reimbursement Program (ITVERP) to ensure there was no overlap in compensation.

6. Please describe any notable activities during the reporting period that improved the process of victim compensation services.

In addition to the relocation administrative code revisions and forensic examination sub-grant described above, three other notable activities occurred during this reporting period. 1.) The Bureau of Victim Compensation streamlined and simplified the lengthy and rather complicated Florida Administrative Codes which govern the department thereby improving overall efficiency and understanding of the qualifications and documentation requirements. 2.) The department suffered no interruption in operations directly resulting from the COVID-19 crisis, however, in April-2021, staff returned to the office at full capacity which improved the reliability and efficiency of telephonic communications. 3.) The department paid $12,133,069.83 during FFY 2020-21, which is an insignificant 1.8% less than the prior year. However, having received 14.6% fewer applications, or 21.1% fewer applications excluding sexual battery forensic examination claims, the statistic suggests that victims who received compensation received more money for their expenses which is supported by increased payment trends for economic losses such as wage loss and disability (33.9% increase over FFY 2019-20), and funeral/burial benefits (7.2% increase over FFY 2019-20).

7. Please describe in detail ways in which your state used VOCA Administrative funds and the impact of these funds on the state's ability to improve victim compensation services during the reporting period.

The Bureau of Victim Compensation did not use federal Victim of Crime Act (VOCA) funds for administrative purposes during this reporting period. All administrative costs were paid using funds acquired through the state's Crime Compensation Trust Fund.

8. Were there any laws, initiatives, or policy changes in your state regarding victim compensation during the reporting period? If yes, please briefly describe them and their impact.

During this reporting period, considerable effort was taken to establish improvements that would increase sustainability and long-term solvency of the Crimes Compensation Trust Fund. Under the guidance of the Office for Victims of Crime, determinations were made to leverage the availability of funding from VOCA-Assistance administered by the Bureau of Advocacy and Grants Management, for allowable costs such as ancillary relocation expenses and sexual battery forensic examination claims, thus allowing the trust fund to recover. Since those revisions were implemented, a significant cost savings has been observed. The impact is being discussed by executive management who are considering proposals that restore compensatory maximums for all benefit types to the amounts prior to the budget shortfall experienced in September-2019.

9. Please describe system-coordination efforts with prosecutors, law enforcement, courts, U.S. attorneys' offices, tribal systems, State VOCA Victim Assistance Coordinator, or other key personnel within the criminal justice system in your state to reduce barriers to victims who may apply to receive victim compensation.

The Bureau of Victim Compensation continued its partnership with victim service organizations, sexual assault response teams, children's advocacy programs, numerous state agencies, faith-based community representatives, and local law enforcement agencies to provide support and assistance with filing compensation claims.

10. Please explain any public outreach efforts to improve awareness of your program.

Public outreach is completed by offering continued education to victim advocates, service providers, law enforcement support staff, and community partners who engage victims of crime. The Bureau of Victim Compensation deployed a dedicated trainer to facilitate compensation discussions at both Victim Services Practitioner Designation Training, and Enhancing Victim Services Through Victim Compensation Training, which are offered multiple times throughout the state each year. The department also continued to publish posters offered in English, Spanish, and Creole, and brochures which were distributed at trainings and to Victim of Crime Act funded partners, as well as making them available to the public on our webpages at www.MyFloridaLegal.com and <https://VANext.MyFloridaLegal.com>.

11. Please list any other outcome measure(s) that are reported to the governor, legislature, or other state entity that have not been reported in this submission. Provide the actual measure(s). The data may be reported separately in your progress report.

All Division of Victim Services and Criminal Justice Program departments, which includes the Bureau of Victim Compensation, file an Annual Report with the Governor and Legislature. That report provides an overview of activities and includes the total number of claims received, amounts paid, and calls resolved. It also includes the total amount received from all state funding sources including surcharges, court costs, fines, restitution and subrogation activities, and compares those amounts with the totals paid by each judicial circuit. To access a copy of the report, visit MyFloridaLegal.com, About the Office, Victims Advocacy, and select Crime Victims Services Resources.

12. Please provide any additional comments that are helpful to improving the Victim Compensation state and/or federal program.

The Bureau of Victim Compensation offers praise and sincere appreciation to the Office for Victims of Crime (OVC), for the continued coordination and willingness to assist. Like many other states, Florida has received direct support from OVC's current administration which has had a profound impact at the state level. The department encourages OVC to continue the collection of feedback through the Compensation Advisory Committee and collaboration with the National Association of Crime Victim Compensation Boards. Florida would appreciate inclusion during discussions on revisions to the federal guidelines intended to provide greater capacity for state compensation programs to administer awards directly to crime victims.
